COMMENTS:

This bill would make changes to the California Public Records Act, including providing for public inspection and copying of public records within specified time periods.

The July 21, 1998, amendment deleted the portion of the bill that made changes to the California Public Records Act regarding a denied requester's right to institute proceedings for injunctive or declarative relief in any court to enforce the requester's right to inspect or receive a copy of the public record requested.

Except for the discussion above, the department's analysis of SB 143 as amended July 16, 1998, still applies.
